HIS UNHAPPY TIME

When Father Pays for Good Things He Has Had.

Shadows Upon Life Are Not Always Caused by Financial Affairs—Health Specialist Occasionally Gets Busy.

Speaking about the influence of money on human happiness, and the fact that the lasting pleasures of life are totally unassociated with money, father is a very good example of the latter promise, writes Glenn M. Farley in the Pacific Post-Intelligencer. Father's very special health specialist has forbidden him to smoke his pipe before midday, and the pleasure of life has completely vanished from all his forethoughts. More than that, father has been a prodigious feeder all his life, with emphasis at the breakfast hour, and the c. h. a. has cut off the breakfast at one fell stroke, and permitted him to partake of milk only at that hour. Hence we have a sad, depressed, peevish person masquerading as father, until the stroke of high noon; then there are large cuts and much scratching of matches and voluminous clouds of smoke. His mornings are hell, and his afternoons are heaven, says father, and one can well believe him; these clouds and shadows upon life, one observes, have nothing to do with money. But doesn't it press belief what a little thing can alter the whole color of man's life, and cast him from a condition of comparative bliss into the clough of despair? However, these little breaks in the regular habit of the individual seem to be logically necessary. A man may, of course, restrict himself shamefully, and still contrive to be up and around; but nobody cares to bare's drag out an existence. Consider how many babies of tobacco father must have absorbed in perhaps forty years of uninterrupted pipe pulling! The health sharp corner alone and tell him that he has enough surplus nicotine in his system to start a tobacco factory. And besides this there are about the same number of years given over to the indulgence of a farmer's appetite without the farmer's exercise. Father will put away a meat that would make a f. b. jealous, and then ride down town and sit in an office chair all day. He will stand this for 30 or 40 years, and then complain that he is not feeling just right, and he wonders what is the matter with him?

When we come to consider father we recognize, at once, that he ought to have a guardian. There is where the very special health specialist comes in. He sits in and takes father's breakfast and his pipe away from him, and it is standard if he does not at a take his lunch and his dinner away from him before his rigorous course is completed. And when all is done, father is either stepping high, like a blind horse, and feeling his oats, or the legs around the office are clapping in to buy him a wreath. It is a long chance, but he has to take it. Having enjoyed his own flat-headed and entirely erroneous way for 40 years, it is high time somebody was stepping in and telling him what to do. The great mistake with most human beings is that their parents stop spanking them too early in life.

Not African Golf.

Of course, Pittsburghers, being everything that is good and clever in the pastime of the links, know what "African golf" means. But did they ever hear of "Mississippi marbles"? That's a new name for craps; we have it on the authority of a flock of negroes arranged before Magistrate Simpson charged with toying with the elusive and aggravating little cubes.

"We were only playing 'Mississippi marbles,'" pleaded one of the prisoners in explanation.

"Mississippi marbles? What's that?" asked the puzzled magistrate.

"Why—why, 'jest craps,'" explained the spokesman.

"I've learned something," said the court, "but just the same you fellows are too big, too old, to play marbles. A kid's game; so I'll fine you each $10."

Modernized Grammar.

The teacher of a New Hampshire school was caught examining a few of his school pupils in grammar, and on the subject, and made me a choice comprising the word "test" and the word "pointing" to a small object, and as if in thought, "Last week father had a test yesterday he set him."

COSTLY COAT IS IN GREAT FAVOR

Heavy Outer Garment Is Distinctive Article in Season's Wardrobe.

SE FUR, VELVET AND CLOTH

Favorite Materials Are Lovely as Well as Expensive—Cape Arrangements Prominent in Scheme of Evening Wraps.

Frocks are lovely this season but after a careful study of the season's wardrobe one feels inclined to say that the coat is the distinctive article in the season's wardrobe—coats are so handsome, so varied, so altogether so desirable, and also in these most desirable forms so expensive, says a leading fashion writer.

One can buy a cheap coat, but under pocketbook limitations positively enforce rigid economy, one is not likely to buy a cheap coat. Temptation to extravagance lurks on every hand. It is easy to be wise when fully dressed, but when one goes into a coat shop this season with more money in her pocket than she intends to spend, the chances are that she will invest it all.

Cloths, velvets, furs, all of the materials for the high class coats, are well loved and costly. In addition, the most stylish coat is one of such simple lines that it calls for much of that costly material. There is no denying high prices with that combination of expensive material and simplicity.

Variety in Cost of Fur Coats. The smart fur coat varies in price with the kind and quality of the fur, but even Hudson seal and caracul seem up if freely used and trimmed with other fur. These are two standard furs for the coat of more moderate price, and, while the seal, which is a matter of fact is dyed muskrat, is the softer and more becoming, the caracul stands wear and weather more bravely. The matter of becomingness is settled by the fur collar of the coat, for fur contrasting sharply with the coat is likely to be used on either the seal or the caracul.

Pretty Vagaries of Millinery

Millinery for midwinter is like autumn leaves—the most colorful and brilliant of all the year's pageantry. Designers give free rein to fancy when the time comes to grace the heads of fair women for the gayeties of holiday times and all that the midwinter season brings in the way of entertainment. This year they are reveling in the most gorgeous materials, gold and silver tints and laces, mock jewels, beads, sprays, bows, and embroideries—everything rich and splendid that they can lay hands on.

The eternal feminine has not changed since Time began. The brilliant effort is the same one of winter millinery—after it, and already edging in with it, come the plain and simple decorations: hats, the prettiest of spring styles—due to make an early appearance for the benefit of great numbers of southern tourists.

Who but a designer of millinery would ever think of interpreting the lovely world in the hair? But the designer's judgment is vindicated, for the hat at the top of the group shown above is a fascinating variety of millinery. Characteristic of a midwinter shape shows a little bunch of grapes and a rose, poised with all the assurance in the world, at the top—where the queen of flowers has a right to be. The rose needs this prominent position to be seen at all—for what observer will be able to get beyond a pair of eyes that must be looked into behind a veil of lace?

Gold cloth with applique of figures in black silk cord makes the rich hat at the left of the group. It suggests the Orient, too, with its odd, but beautiful, feathers that fall like a fringe at the side, and it belongs in the company it appears in, being of the same character as the coolie hat.

MORE THAN WILLING TO GO

Senator's Suggestion, Meant as Sarcastic, Probably Was Wish Closest to Adventurer's Heart.

Maj. Cushman A. Rice of Minnesota, the original "Soldier of Fortune," dropped in to see Senator Knute Nelson the other day, on his way back from war. This last war made about the fourth Rice has been in, so the veteran Minnesota senator thought Rice had had enough.

"Cushman," the senator said, "why don't you quit roaming around, go home and run for office? Your male relatives have been governors, senators, etc., and there is no reason why you should not serve your state." Rice did not seem greatly impressed, so Nelson became somewhat warmer in his remarks.

"If you're bound to fight, why not get over into Russia, among the reds, and get some real action?" Nelson said, sarcastically.

Whereupon Rice leaped into the air. "Say, senator," he shouted, "if you'll fix it up so I can get over there, there isn't anything I wouldn't do for you."

FINLEY WARNS ON SALARY QUESTION

Department to Vigorously Oppose Any Attempt of State Board of Education to Take Away Power of Boards of Education—Would Make Boards Still More Independent of Municipal Authorities.

Warning that any attempt to repeal the state law allowing boards of education to fix their respective teachers' salaries will be vigorously opposed by the state department of education and by boards of education throughout the state was sounded by Dr. John H. Finley, commissioner of education, Thursday. Dr. Finley not only declares the law shall not be repealed, but advocates a law turning over all financial dealings regarding schools directly to the education boards. He recommends: Completely financial independence on the part of the boards of education; home rule for the schools; separate tax rolls and assessments for educational purposes and direct responsibility of the board of education to the people of the district, whether it be city, village or other unit.

That the department realizes that the State Conference of Mayors will seek by legislation to wrest the power of fixing salaries from the education boards and place it back with the board of estimate and apportionment is indicated by Dr. Finley's letter, and also by the action of the boards of education of the state, which have organized and will have their first meeting in Auburn tonight at which to make plans for the legislative fight. Albany, Troy, Schenectady and other Capital District boards will be represented at the conference.

The legislative committee of the conference to meet in Albany Monday is expected to include in the legislative program a bill placing boards of education definitely under the municipal authorities.

Dr. Finley declares that the schools must be kept entirely free from political manipulation. "The schools are state institutions and not local," he adds. He recommends that changes in the school law should make a more clearly defined separation of school and municipal affairs.

He concludes: "I view with deep concern the possibility of a transfer of the functions of the boards of education as they exist under the present law in respect to teachers' salaries, to municipal authorities. Such a transfer would produce confusion and result in the intermingling of school affairs with city affairs, so that the teachers must obtain recognition to their just demands in the same manner and under the same methods of procedure as other city employees. Boards of education and other independent organizations interested in public school system will forcibly protest against any proposed interference with the existing independent control and management of our public school organizations."

PARENTS STAGE FLYING CIRCUS

Captain and Mrs. G. L. McEntee Go Through Varied Air Stunts as Kiddies Whoop. at Flying Field in California—Captain is Former Kingston Boy.

A clipping from a San Francisco paper states:

Bringing children up to the cultural refinements of aviation was the modern thing in child education tried out yesterday morning on "Duke" and "Pat" McEntee by their up to the minute mother and father.

Capt. G. L. McEntee, Presidio morale officer, and Mrs. McEntee painted the skies red between Varner Field and the Presidio Airplane. They were edifying their various youngsters by riding in the Lockheed circus planes.

Mrs. McEntee, garbed in a riding habit and flourishing a crop frisked the clouds in the front seat, with Pilot Elliott manipulating the controls. The captain hovered above them with "You can never scare me!" Mrs. McEntee shouted back at Elliott.

Elliott's reply was a backward "reversement." They dropped to within ten feet of the shrieking youngsters before leveling out. Mrs. McEntee repeated her challenge into the motor racket.

Then the airplane scraped the grass tips and spiraled a tree. It jumped from sea level into loops and swished back to sea level.

Both planes landed side by side in the dead-leaf, and were swarmed upon by Pat and Duke. Mrs. McEntee asked her sons' approval of the aerial tutoring.

"Can't learn with you doing the flying," was Pat's objection.

"Gee!" said Duke. "you gotta let us do it, and then we'll learn."

Capt. McEntee is a son of Mrs. Mary I. McEntee of West Chestnut street and a former Kingston boy.

mitted Miss Stuart gave an outline of the work done in the community. In all 45 communities have been organized and have taken up the work.

Mrs. Edward Young of Milton gave a brief but very interesting talk on the work of the Home Bureau in the past and spoke of the aim of the Ulster County Home Bureau for the coming season.

In many communities, she said, there are at present so many clubs and social organizations that the question has been raised as to how they would find time for the Home Bureau work. This she explained was an easy matter. The Home Bureau did not desire to establish another club or organization in a community but desired to combine or get together the women of the various clubs in closer co-operation.

In many communities there are literary clubs, organizations to promote music, art, etc., and the aim, she thought, of the Home Bureau was to get these people together and exchange ideas so that all of the homes and families might profit by the knowledge of the individual.

The goal of 1920 is 1,000 members for the Home Bureau during the year and this, although at first thought seems high, she pointed out was a small matter. There are at present about half that number in the county and it means only that each member must win another to bring the membership up to 1,000. The membership campaign is to last three weeks and at the conclusion of that time the winner will be awarded a banner in the membership contest.

Last year several of the communities secured more than their allotted number of members while many others fell far short of their required number. A membership of 1,000 for 1920 will mean that each community will have to get approximately six more than the quota as allotted last year and in view of the good work which has been accomplished by the Home Bureau in the past, ought not to be a hard task. The new allotments for 1920 were read. The city of Kingston which has had no definite apportionment before will this year have an allotment of 100 members.

Following the talk by Mrs. Young, Mrs. Hamilton of Oneonta who spoke in place of Mrs. A. L. Bridgen who was unable to attend on account of illness, was introduced.

Mrs. Hamilton started Home Bureau work several years ago in Erie county and at present is doing Farmers' Institute work through the state. In twenty-five counties in New York state Home Bureaus have been established since the first one in Erie county. Mrs. Hamilton devoted a greater part of her talk to "improvements in the home." She urged the women to install labor saving devices in their home and urged the keeping of household accounts. In many homes the women are poor business managers; they keep no accounts of expenditures and at the end of a year cannot tell where or how money was spent in the household. Mrs. Hamilton urged women to keep a "thrifty account" and put the home on a business basis. She spoke of organization and Home Bureau work. The Farmers' Week which is to be held at Ithaca was spoken of and every woman who could do so was urged to attend.

Miss Stuart, manager of the Home Bureau, spoke on the development of the Home Bureau program for 1920 and outlined the work which will be taken up during the year. The program for 1920 will be practically the same as last year except on a broader plan. The nursing course, courses in nutrition, civics, military and dressmaking will be introduced where requested and where any community desired to take up a special course it will be arranged for. A nutrition clinic will be shortly established in Wallkill where under-privileged or children who seem to require special nourishment may be brought and the parents will be given advice as to what special food may be required for the individual child.

Beside this a special sewing class has been established in Kingston where younger folks who have not had an opportunity to learn sewing in school or at home may come and receive instruction. Two such classes have been established and will hold their first meeting on Monday evening.

Judge Clearwater spoke on "The Home of the Future." In his address which had been arranged by the Ulster County Home Bureau and of the work of similar organizations in Massachusetts, Vermont and the western states, Judge Clearwater told of one of his personal experiences while touring through Massachusetts. He stopped at a farm home in western Massachusetts and found the farmer's wife earning corn on the ear in large glass jars. This experience being a new one he inquired where the farmer's wife had learned of

IT CULMINATED IN PROHIBITION

Review of "Dry" Movement From First Temperance Society in Saratoga (Founded in 1800)—Why Anti-Saloon League Didn't Work With Prohibition Party—"Wet" Arguments Answered.

I hang out my flag every day when something appeals to the spirit of patriotism. Friday January 17, I hung it to the breeze for it was the day of days. Then I glanced at it. It seemed transformed and transfigured—could it be the same flag? Its form and coloring were the same, but not the same. Its red never seemed so bright before, nor its blue so deep, nor its white so bright. The sun was not shining on it, but it had a wonderful glow. The glory of the infinite touched it. It stood for the greatest and most powerful nation of the world not only, but now it stands for an emancipated nation. For the first time since the government went into partnership with the rum traffic, this flag waved over no licensed saloon in the entire nation. It was no wonder that God touched it.

And this glorification was real to me, never was anything more real in my life. At the previous "midnight" Uncle Sam had sold to every place where strong drink had been sold "Lights out—doors closed—clean up and go into some business which will bless the world. You can never legally sell another glass of intoxicants."

Two great sins have been committed on our nation—Slavery, which was not only a sin against God and our brother, "for God hath made of one blood all nations," but it was a sin against ourselves, and the best interests of our country. No one would call it back—no one would plead for it nor apologize for it now. The mighty bounds and leaps with which our country has gone forward since then, show how this great sin had hampered our advancement.

God had called many times, "Let my people go" and we would not obey. Not until our first born were slain in a civil war and our best blood both north and south poured out did we as a nation hear and obey.

We must not forget that national sins are punished in this world—in individual sins will largely be punished in the world to come.

And here was a greater sin—the rum traffic—not national but universal—and in this we refused to obey the Almighty. Some of us feared that this national sin would be blotted out only with blood. And so it has proved, as the blood red fields of Flanders prove. I suspect that if we had not obeyed, the terrible war would have been much longer and more bloody. We are slow as individuals and as nations to remember it is always a losing battle when we fight against God and too often forget that all sin will be punished.

But what brought about this great change by which a nation drunk, becomes a nation sober?

The drink traffic was entrenched in customs which were heavy with age. It was entrenched in the law of the land. It had unlimited resources in its hands, for its unholy gains were great beyond measure. No other sin was so defiant, and no other class of people were as lawless as those engaged in it.

It is another case of the weak overthrowing the mighty. Another case of the God of heaven: hearing and heeding the cry of the weak and oppressed.

In the spring of 1874 with a friend I visited Moreau, Saratoga county and stood with uncovered head in the building where the first temperance society in history was organized April 30, 1808. When we visited it it was a Friends meeting house.

It was a month before the date above mentioned that Dr. Billy Clark started the pastor, Rev. Libbens Armstrong, with the declaration "We shall all become a community of drunks in this town unless something is done to arrest the progress of intemperance."

His reading the famous essay of Dr. Benjamin Rush on the "Effects of Ardent Spirits Upon the Human Mind and Body," moved him to this action. With the co-operation of the pastor a constitution was drafted and on the date above mentioned, forty-three men signed the roll. This was the first temperance society. They held regular quarterly and annual meetings for fourteen years.

The pledge prohibits the drinking of intoxicants. If one did drink, he was fined 25c. If he became intoxicated he was fined $5, and if he gave strong drink to another he was obliged to pay 25c.

It should be noticed that this was not started by temperance fanaticism as they are sometimes called, but by drinking men banding themselves together to help one another to break the terrible habit.

The next movement we would note was of the reformation of a Baltimore drinking club of six members (drinking men, please note again). The hearing of a temperance lecture led them to do this. This was their pledge: "We, whose names are signed, desirous of forming a society for our mutual benefit, and to guard against a practice—a pernicious practice—which is injurious to our health, standing and families, do pledge ourselves, as gentlemen, that we will not drink any spirit or malt liquors, wine or cider."

They took the name of "The Washington Temperance Society." They were known as the "Washingtonians." The date was April 6, 1840 and before the year closed this Baltimore organization had 799 members.

The master mind was John H. W. Blacker, who, a confirmed drunkard, had been reformed through the efforts of one of his daughters. He traveled through various parts of the country, organizing societies, and securing pledges. By the end of 1841, at least 100,000 persons had signed the pledge, of which a large number had been confirmed drinkers.

or Headache—rub the forehead and temples with

My father was an officer in the society in the town where he lived. It is believed that Mr. Harkins during his life time secured a quarter million signatures to the pledge.

One of the outcomes of the Washington movement was the organization of the "Sons of Temperance" in New York city September 29, 1842. Their objects were to "Reclaim the inebriate, rescue the moderate drinker, and save the youth from the power of the drink habit."

The years of drill in the local organization near my home, and other years a deputy of the county in which I resided, did much to give me the strong interest in the cause of temperance which has directed my after life.

Other temperance organizations followed, "The Templars of Honor," in 1845, and the "Good Templars" in 1851 which was organized in central New York and has exerted a great influence in the United States, and has been planted in many foreign lands. Many hundreds of thousands have taken the total abstinence pledge and been trained for prohibition in this organization.

Then came an organization which unlike all previous ones, was composed of women. It was the outcome of the "Woman's Crusade" in Ohio in 1873 and was organized at Cleveland, November 17, 1874. The W. C. T. U. has become world-wide. Its pledge is total abstinence. Its badge a bit of white ribbon. Its motto is "For God, and Home and Native Land."

It is largely along educational lines and has always been looking toward the enfranchisement of women and legal prohibition.

Its influence has been beyond measure. A few years before its formation, 1869, the Prohibition party was formed. September 1 last year it celebrated its fiftieth anniversary in Chicago, within a short distance of the place of its birth.

Many think it has been more potent than any other agency in bringing about the total abolition of the traffic.

A quarter of a century later the Anti-Saloon League was organized, as an annex to the Republican party and it has clung closely to its ideal. Many people have not been able to understand why there has not been hearty accord between the Anti-Saloon League and the Prohibition party. They did not know the history of the league. It was organized to head off the Prohibition party while they deride the prohibitionists as "a combination of misguided enthusiasts, moral preachers, disgruntled politicians, mercenary cranks, operating in the social name of temperance."

But all the above mentioned agencies and some we have not mentioned have helped to bring about the final result. There is honor and glory enough for all.

Dr. Clarence True Wilson, general secretary of the Methodist Episcopal Church, has well summed it up: "It could not have been won without the sledge hammer blows of the party prohibitionists, faithful and loyal for fifty years, sacrificing their time, talents, standing, fortunes and some of them their lives that the nation might have this new birth."

The sentiment and prayers of the white ribbon army, the agitation and votes of the prohibitionists, the organization and money of the league, the unifying and enlisting recruits of the church temperance boards finally brought all necessary helpers over and put the task across.

Those who framed the constitution of the United States well knowing there would need to be changes in it, provided a way whereby it could be amended. But it could not be easily accomplished. There must be a two-thirds vote in both houses of congress and a ratification by the legislatures of three-fourths of the states.

The matter of having it referred to the people of the state is not in the constitution and the 18th amendment was passed in the same way that the 17 amendments preceding it were passed.

The necessary majority was given in congress and instead of 36, three-fourths of the state legislatures ratifying, forty-five legislatures really ratified, leaving but three of the small states out, New Jersey, Connecticut and Rhode Island. And not only so, but representatives of over 100,000,000 people voted for ratification, and representatives of but 5,000,000 voted against it, or a ratio of twenty-one to one, and 82 per cent of the members of these state legislatures voted for ratification. I am quite sure that no amendment to the constitution has before been carried by such an overwhelming majority.

The plan that the law committees property without paying for it is met by the statement that one year was to elapse after its ratification, before it went into effect, and in reference to the War Prohibition measure, the judges of the supreme court of the United States will answer that by staying in their unanimous decision: "The War Time Prohibition act fixed a period of seven months and nine days from the passage during which liquors could be disposed of free from any restriction imposed by the general government."

It was the greed of the liquor dealers and their belief that the law would be overthrown which led them to hold their noses until it was too late to make any sense of it.

If the voters have been legally taken, which seems apparent, the law can never be overthrown, for to repeal it would need two-thirds vote in both houses of congress and of the legislatures of three-fourths of the states.

It seems quite evident that it is not only the expressed will of the people through their representatives, but through the provisions of the constitution.

The plan that such a law could never be enforced seems to be answered by the fact that the agents of the government are taking hold of it, and these previously changed in the best

ACCORD

Accord, Jan. 22—E. L. Chase, the new Farm Bureau manager of Ulster county, was in town Monday, getting acquainted with some of our progressive farmers. We gather that emphasis will be placed on the co-operative marketing of farm products.

The latest rumor we have heard is that Myron Markle is about to sell his farm, retire from agricultural pursuits and engage in the restaurant business at Kingston. A lady in ill health enroute via automobile from New York city to Long's boarding home, arrived in town Tuesday. As the mountain roads are impassable for automobile, she was transferred to a sleigh to reach her destination.

Wednesday morning was some cold. Thermometers registered from 24 degrees to 30 degrees below zero. David Deper has been entertaining a friend from Poughkeepsie.

Mrs. Grace Ford and daughter, are visiting relatives at Kingston. Cyrus Hendrickson, who is employed at Westwood, spent Wednesday with his family.

Several Markle has been spending several days with friends in New York and New Jersey.

Mrs. Norman Clearwater and Mrs. John C. Overholt, spent Wednesday at Kingston.

The Community Sing, which could not be held Monday evening on account of the storm, will be held Monday evening, Jan. 26. Meeting was held at the Reformed Church on Sunday and Monday evenings.

At Document, France, Cardinal Dubois, archbishop of Rouen and former bishop of Verdun, blessed the historic Tranche des Rides, the "Tranche of the Rides," September 14. The ceremony occurred in the presence of General Valentin, commander of the forts and heights of the Meuse; of M. Robin, mayor of Verdun, and a delegation of the One Hundred and Thirty-seventh regiment, according to Current History, New York Times.

The Tranche of the Rides lies behind a humble wooden cross erected near Douaumont, which is a shapeless mass of splintered rock, of barbed wire writhing as if in torment, of nameless litter, through which poppy and brambles tried to thrust upward during the summer. This cross overlooks the bloodied battle field of the war. It was erected by men of the One Hundred and Thirty-seventh regiment because close by their dead comrades are still mounting guard—there in the Tranche des Rides.

It was a small episode amidst a cataclysm and soon over. In Indian file the men of the One Hundred and Thirty-seventh crept forth to mount guard, rifle on shoulder, bayonets fixed; there came a sudden, thunderous boom; the earth shuddered and cracked open, closed again, and swallowed up all. Thrusting above the ground, aligned as on that last march down the narrow trench that led to death, the bayonets of the section rise a bare six inches. It was this Tranche of Rides, and the dead heroes, still mounting guard below, that the cardinal blessed.

Many tell lies in order to deceive us and many because they themselves are deceived. Some seek to win our favor by false accusations and invent wrongs in order that they may appear angry at our having suffered them. One man lies out of spite that he may set trusting friends at variance; some because they are suspicious and wish to see sport and watch from a safe distance those whom they have set by the ears.—Lucius Annaeus Seneca.

THE FLYER

By T. B. ALDERSON

(Copyright 1936, Western Newspaper Union)

No one in the village could understand why pretty Althea Dorrance favored Gale Marston as a sweetheart, least of all her cross-grained, parsimonious, yet wealthy grandfather. He allowed her no visitors, and when he found that she was meeting Gale clandestinely at the rear garden gate, he surprised the romantic duo and gave Gale a severe dressing down.

"If I find you skulking about my premises again," declared the drastic old tyrant, "I'll get out my shotgun! You'd better do something in the world before you think of getting married."

The taunt cut deep. To his own way of thinking, Gale averaged pretty well for a young man of twenty-two. He had worked up from entry clerk to bookkeeper, was receiving quite a liberal salary, lived respectably, dressed well and loved Althea, which was the crux of the situation. And Althea loved him in return—that was the joy that drove away the despair caused by the cruel and cheerless opposition of a crusty, money-minded old man.

"Do something in the world, eh?" commanded Gale with himself, as he saw Althea driven, rather than led, into the house by her tyrannical relative, in tears. "What does he mean? I'm headed right in a business way and they elected me president of the Merchants' club last week. They gave me a great send-off in the papers, too. Maybe the old curmudgeon is thinking of Harry Moore, who invented a new collar button and made a lot out of it. Or that favorite of his, Ben Junkin. I'll bet that's it! Junkin has become a professional aviator. Mr. Marston tried to interest Althea in Junkin but she won't have it. Yes, he's hinting at what a superior fellow Junkin is. His stunts down at the aviation training field make the old man think he's won fame and is worthy of winning Althea! Well, it's giving me an idea."

The young man's idea was soon put into execution. He decided to enter into the belief that to amount to anything in the world a fellow must become a hero, or a money success, attain notoriety and get to be looked upon as a "somebody." The aviation field seemed sensational and popular. They were offering to teach applicants the way to fly at the field, ten miles distant, with a view to training recruits for the army and postal service in the future. Gale got a leave of absence of two days and went down to Ardmore.

Ben Junkin was there, the king of the roost, so to speak. He was so filled with a sense of his own importance, that he feigned great interest in Gale's frankly expressed aspiration to become an "ace." He flattered the hopes of the novice and then took one of the expert aviators aside.

"See here, Jim," he said confidentially, "I want you to put that fellow through the paces. He's got the flying bug. Encourage him. Wear him out with the tests."

"All right," assented the other. Gale Marston never forgot the day he put in with these practical jokers. They took him to a building where a tub-like contrivance wheeled him around on his feet at lightning speed. This he was told was done to test any tendency towards dizziness. Then he was swung stuff on one foot to discover any tendency towards a rush of blood to the head.

When Jim took him up in the air he gave the propellers a tip which sent the victim rolling to the bottom of the pit. Then he made a sharp dive with the machine, yelling out, "Watch! It's lost control!" He allowed the airplane to strike the ground some feet, and Gale was sent whirling twenty feet across the field. By this time Gale began to suspect imposture. He righted himself pluckily, sat on the ground, lit a cigarette and coolly remarked:

"Fine exercise, eh?" He was bruised he had been frightfully scared, he was through with aerobics, but Gale displayed sheer nerve to the last and, limping from the field, decided that he would thereafter devote his energies distinctly to a winged Althea exclusively. No more trucking to the prejudice or favoritism of the whimsical Josiah Dorrance. He got word to Althea and had a stolen interview with her.

A few evenings later Ben Junkin was chuckling over "the course of sports" they had put Gale through. He narrated its incidents to Mr. Dorrance.

"The fellow showed pluck and nerve, I will admit," he observed, "but he will never be a flyer."

"What's that?" retorted the old man, as the chugging of an automobile sounded in the lane behind the house.

He looked into the next room where he had left Althea quietly waiting a few minutes previous. She was out there. He rushed out through the garden. An auto was just speeding down the drive and he caught sight of two figures in its rear as it dashed around a lighted street corner. White and gasping, he dashed into the presence of Ben Junkin.

"You brought that Gale Marston was he?" he shouted out. "Well, he's taken a smash on me. He hit me from behind with Althea!"

AIRPLANE TO DEVELOP CHINA

American Commercial Attache Points Out How Problem Facing That Country May Be Met

The keynote of the great problem of development which is facing China is transportation. The American commercial attache at Peking, Mr. Julian Arnold, has laid emphasis on this in an article in the Chinese Recorder.

"China's Economic Problems and Christian Missionary Effort," Mr. Arnold deals with the necessity of preparing the Chinese people for the great economic change which is upon them. Railways will mean much to China, but the necessity for the training and preparation of which Mr. Arnold speaks is shown to be distinctly urgent when Prof. Middleton Smith's views on the use of airplanes to China are known. China is a land of waterways, and these waterways afford the necessary existing lines of transportation along which, to secure the success of commercial aviation, airframes and supply depots should be established. Schools of technical training should supply the necessary Chinese skilled labor, and with these aerial services established, Professor Smith foresees such an incalculable increase in the rapidly of communications as completely to revolutionize the country internally and add to its deep importance as a world factor.

HAD AN OBJECT IN POSING

A moose out in the wilds does not stop to pose for her picture. There is generally a reason for the peculiar actions of wild things. In the current issue of the Hunter-Trapper, published in Columbus, O., hunters write of their experience.

"We had an early start Thursday and Sam soon proclaimed that his pipe forecasted snow. The first bend was rounded and knee-deep in the water stood a fat sleek cow. Our canoe advanced toward her, the camera set for an exposure. Sam called softly and she advanced a hundred feet toward us, ears erect, with a curious 'what are you' manner."

"At 75 feet she stopped and posed for the picture, and then waited until we were 50 feet away before she turned into the woods. At the top of the bank she waited for us to pass before crashing into the timber."

"Her action was explained when we turned the bend and at the water's edge saw her calf, a fine four or five month old fellow, which climbed the bank and was away after her at once."

New Cloth for Hard Wear. A new textile fabric which, it is claimed, will tend to lower the present high cost of men's clothing is being placed on the market by a Factory (Yorkshire) manufacturer, writes United States Trade Commissioner Henry F. Girden from London.

The London agent of the manufacturer states that the new cloth is made entirely of silk wool (or short fibers) and that, while superior in wearing properties to a pure worsted cloth, it is sold at the price of cheaply cloth, or one-fourth the price of the best wool fabrics. It is said to be strong and shrunken, washable, very suitable for hard wear, and can be obtained in grays, browns and blacks.

No Recalls. "An I saw from the station last week," said a recently arrived crowd, "I noticed a crowd in front of the State House and heard considerable yelling. What was the occasion?"

"A funeral and the mourners were yelling what they thought of death when the funeral procession was passing."

leg live prices for the stuff they had to sell," replied the landlord of the Petunia tavern. "But there wasn't any particular excitement—it happens every day. The crowd merely gathered in the hope that they might accidentally say something new and interesting."—Kansas City Star.

Weds During His Lunch Hour. How to be married without working was the title of a little sketch staged the other day by E. W. Grieder, a printer employed on the St. Paul Dispatch.

Grieder faced a problem. He was slated as a principal in a marriage ceremony. His only spare time was a half hour for lunch.

So he called his fiancée, Miss Clara Lavitz, by telephone, arranged with her to meet him in the office of Henry Gallick, court commissioner, and the ceremony was performed. Grieder then took lunch and returned to work.

Quick Action. "The war made exceptional opportunities."

"Yes; a fellow could begin at the bottom and at the same time go over the top."

Music Turns Head. Shopping to turn a stubborn head, the musician not infrequently finds the effect of his performance spoiled by an awkward passer. From France now comes an invention which will obviate this annoyance, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. The music is printed, not on paper, but on a long strip, as in the practice with music for the player piano. Placed on the player piano, the music passes before the eyes of the passer at any desired speed. The controlling lever is conveniently placed at one side.

MUSTARINE

SKIRTS SHORT, ALSO HOSIERY

Severity of Letter Attributed to Height of Former by European Authorities.

London.—Women are advised to buy their silk stockings now, for a famine in silk stockings is predicted in Europe next year. No more business is being accepted by continental silk manufacturers. Prices have risen 25 to 40 per cent since last before the war, and some Japanese factories are six times more expensive.

The severity is partially attributed to the short skirt craze, which has resulted in enormous demands for silk stockings. Consequently there has been a marked decline in production largely due to the depletion of the silk worm crop in continental Asia.

These were young men who were taken on during the war and were trained because of their special talents. It is said that they proved themselves much more efficient and quicker than boys.

AVOID TROUBLES OF AUTO ENGINE

If Owner Expects Enjoyment and Comfort Out of Car He Must Take Care of It.

WATCH FOR UNUSUAL NOISES

Look for Squeaks and Lubricate Parts Affected—Motorist Who Seeks Lucky With Car Is One Who Looks After Details.

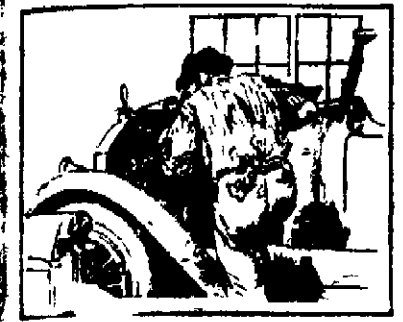

If you want to get enjoyment and comfort out of your car you must take care of it as you would a fine horse. Therefore you must:

See the engine unnecessarily. Have your car tuned for every unusual noise. If it is a squeak locate and lubricate the part. If it is some other noise find the loose part that causes it and tighten it right away.

Do not tinker about the engine when it isn't necessary. Half the ability to make an adjustment or repair is the ability to discover its necessity.

Motorist Who Seeks "Lucky."

Have you ever noticed the motorist who seems "lucky" with his car, who never seems to have a bit of trouble, who keeps it neat and whose engine always starts immediately the self-starter is pressed; who doesn't have any breakdowns while on the road, nor care the manufacturer for building with a car? It isn't luck at all. With all adjustments properly taken care of every day and working part lubricated the whole car will run perfectly and will continue to run with only a wee bit of attention.

In neglecting details you save time and inconvenience to be sure but eventually you will find a bad break and what time you have saved will be wasted in expensive repairs.

Avoid Accidents.

Never drive your car at high speed over any road, much less a rough or a slippery one. The slight gain in time will be offset by the risk of an accident and the pounding and racking which the car will receive.

It has been proven that the owner who drives his car at average speeds of from twenty-five to thirty-five miles an hour over all sorts of roads pays much more per mile for gasoline, oil and tires than the driver who watches constantly for rough places and avoids them and who drives at a rate of eighteen to twenty miles per hour. A car which is driven at a high rate of speed is usually in the repair shop often, which adds much more to the cost per mile of operation.

It is not how many miles are covered in a certain time, but the number of miles of useful travel that can be obtained at the least cost for fuel, oil, tires and repairs.—Popular Science Monthly.

Carburetor Vibration.

In fitting a new carburetor be sure that there is no looseness to cause vibration, because if there is, a broken down will be the inevitable result.

Wire Wheels.

Wire wheels should be carefully inspected at frequent intervals.

LINE UP WHEELS TO SAVE COSTLY TIRES

Not as Difficult a Task as Many People Think.

Detailed Instructions, With Illustrations, Showing Just How Operation May Be Performed—Make Auto Steer Easily.

Everybody knows that if the two front wheels of the automobile are not parallel, or nearly so, the side-slip of one of them, usually the right wheel, results in ruining the tires in a few hundred miles.

Few people, however, know how easy it is to measure the wheels and keep them parallel. The sketch given here with makes it clear. Take a piece of two by three inch scantling, or any stiff board which will fit flat under the car. Make two triangles, somewhat like carpenter's squares, out of three pieces of wood, as shown. One of these is to be fastened permanently to the scantling and the other is separate. Measure the exact height of the center of the hubs of the front wheels from the ground, and drive a long nail or screw through the upper part of each triangle so that the point of the screw will be at the same height as the center of the hub. This is important.

See that the car is standing on a level spot—a concrete floor is best. Place the scantling under the car so that the tip of the fixed screw touches the inside rim of the wheel at the rear edge. Take the movable triangle and slide it along until the tip of the movable screw touches the inside rim of the opposite wheel. Mark this position on the scantling.

Now move the apparatus to the front of the wheels and take another measurement of the distance between rims, marking on the scantling as before. The difference between the two marks on the scantling will show how much the wheels are out of true, and this can be corrected by changing the adjustment on the cross connection between the steering arms.

To make the car steer easily and hold the road closely, the front wheels should not be exactly parallel, but should "toe in" slightly—that is, the distance between the rims at the height of the hub should be about one-quarter inch less at the front of the wheels than at the back.

AUTOMOBILE GOSSIP

Never make adjustments of any kind on the engine unless it is hot.

The top should never be folded when damp or wet, but should be kept open until thoroughly dry.

The driver of a truck or converter using pneumatic tires must be careful never to leave the end of a tire valve uncovered.

Car owners should get into the habit of using belt dressing on the clutch leather to swell it and act as a remedy for slippage.

Do not forget that the ground connection of the ignition circuit should have a dependable connection to the metal parts of the car.

It is very important that regular inspections should be made of the leather coverings or "boots" which protect the universal joints and other parts.

A BEAU FOR KITTY-CAT

By MARTHA WILLIAMS

(A STORY BY MRS. WILLIAMS FOR THE FREEMAN)

"That's I knew we'd better see that old motor clean away. Now he's done crowded right at the door, somebody's there to come—and touch us right in the thick of it—ouch-ouch!" Mrs. Beech said plaintively to her daughter Catherine. They were under the big oak in the back yard peeling for dear life and cutting off the sweet, yellow peach-flesh in deep, thick "cups."

"That's I dried richly flavored. Other neighbors might slice their fruit, or cut it any way—Mrs. Beech always stuck to cups. She likewise refused to dry night but the big yellow clingstone fruit, as sweet as sugar, especially when one waited until it was dead ripe on the trees."

"I ain't skinned over company," Catherine said smiling. "Everybody in hollow-hill distance has been and been. And the circuit riders down 'tether end o' the county—then it's a full month too early for candidates to be riding."

"Don't keef if it is—somebody'll come. I never knowed it fall—the rooster sign," Mrs. Beech said doggedly. Her son Tug, who came from the orchard with a fresh basket of fruit, added teasingly as he set it down.

"I'll be some o' your beaus, Kitty-Cat—you got such a terrible many of 'em I don't hardly see how we'll ever get anything done."

Catherine flushed deeply, but tried to laugh—she was nineteen and had never had a beau. Yet she was not ugly, nor awkward, nor a shrew.

Penny and Jincy, the cousins she came between in age, were both married, and even Ellen Lou, Uncle Ben's girl, only rising fifteen, engaged. It was hard to be set down almost before she came to herself a full-blown old maid. But that seemed inevitable—already people talked of her when a likely widower developed as one who would make a mighty good stepmother. More than that, she had twice been sent for to help bake wedding cake. Her mother said with a sigh if it happened again Catherine's fate was sealed—she'd never know the sign to fall—bake cake for three wedding, you'd never go to your own.

"Somebody's Shore Ter Come."

"Maybe you will see somebody pass," Tug added magnanimously, again shouldering his basket. "Up high in the tree I seen er whole pass o' men yan side the parter—no they ain't ridin'—jest hoppin' er bout and stickin' down sticks and doublin' over like they was a-lookin' fer pins and needles."

"I hope they ain't up to no mean-some-uns—er nothin'!" Mrs. Beech said anxiously. "But if it ain't that, what is the name o' peace can it be?"

She was used to find out. The surveyor, out locating tentatively a new railway cut-off, came upon her around eleven o'clock, begging and praying for dinner. Five men, young and hungry, were rather formidable—still Mrs. Beech never let any hungry soul get away.

She whirled in and, with Catherine's help, set out such a meal by twelve o'clock as made those who ate it her best friends. After a camp breakfast, ham, fried chicken, black-eyed peas, smothered corn, crisp cucumbers and squash melted in butter and cream were beyond need and ambrosia.

Top them off with peach cobbler, very crisp as to crust, very rich and sweet as to filling, and gorging was inevitable. After the gorging the surveyor lay at ease in the shade, smoking, saying "well, but looking gratefully at their hostess."

Thus lying, embarrassment fell upon them. They had meant to pay well for what they got; now the longer they talked or listened to the two women the more impossible became the offer of money. The Beeches were so simple, so genuinely hospitable, so eagerly kind, their guests felt instinctively the duty of money would hurt them.

But to go away without making some return was equally impossible. Once Acton, the head surveyor, thought of suggesting that the cut-off should come to come through the spot where, might mean a round price to the Beeches for the right of way. But that seemed rather low—so if he blatted at payment through favors to come Whipple went about from one to another, behind the backs of hands, or under the pretense of filling pipes from a common pump. They established the fact that all five agreed—a money offer was out of the question, yet something had to be done.

At last Acton had a brilliant idea—namely, to take Tug along when they left upon plea of needing guidance, and send back by his hand either an honorarium fitting the case or an intimation that the Beeches would get a little later, something more substantial than thanks. The rest agreed, still in whispers, that it was a way out. They were young fellows all, and gentlemanly all, therefore they stared at Catherine only when she was looking the other way.

She was not strictly pretty, but there was classic grace in her longish hair, the turn of her head, with its crown of heavy plaits, even in the simple lines of her blue checked gingham frock. Anderson looked at her least of all—he was the youngest of them, just twenty-one and out of school. After each look he turned away his head and puffed hard, as though trying to settle a perplexing problem.

All things end—even after-dinner rests. By three o'clock the party was away. Tug walking proudly with it at Acton's elbow. Acton drew him out adroitly. Inside of ten minutes he knew there was no pinch of poverty in the Beech homestead, neither any great plenty of ready money. He gathered also that Tug owned in full the family feeling of hospitality.

Boy that he was, he said gayly all of them must come again—come to stay, if the railroad were built that way—and run in whistles if it went five miles off. "All you'll get'll be good beds and enough to eat—such as it is," he added. "But mammy looks right good—"

"Indeed she does," came in chorus from the gang. Tug smiled. "You oughter eat with us when she has a chance to show what she can do. He said 'Today she jest hustled up not much more a snack for you all.'"

Further questions elicited that Tug had already a gun watch—heriotous both from granddaddy—a saddle and saddle horse, also that he "didn't keef fer firecrackers and such—mammy was so fraid o' 'em." Any person of benevolence being thus stopped, in the spirit Acton burst out, "Sit, Tug, you does your mammy want she's sayin' worst? We are not trying to pay—but she saved our lives—almost—we were hungry enough to eat each other—and now we shan't be hungry for a week. We're grateful; we want to send her something. Tell us—there's a good fellow—just what she had rather have?"

Tug stared flushed, turned away his head and shifted on his feet. After a minute he said, very low, almost, as though crushed by the saying, "Wes-ter patience ye hadn't asked me—but mammy says I must always tell the truth. She don't really want but one thing in the world—that's a beau, a business beau, fer Kitty Cat—and I don't reckon you could send her that."

His tone was wistful—so wistful nobody laughed. Instead, all eyes went significantly to young Anderson. After a long look at him Acton said, pressing Tug's hand, "Yes, we can—but you mustn't say a word about it—not till after the wedding."

"I won't," Tug promised. And, truly, he never did.

Test for Tearing Force.

A paper-testing machine has been invented by a member of the staff of the forests products laboratory at Madison, Wis. It is expected to render valuable service to the paper industry by supplying data regarding the strength of paper—data that has not been easy to obtain heretofore. The difficulty in testing the tearing strength of paper has always been in securing a constant force of value. Irregularities in the paper structure due to its fibrous nature make the reading of the force required to tear the paper very uncertain. The machine now nearing completion overcomes this difficulty by yielding an average force for the entire tear. It simply measures the work done in tearing the strip. Dividing the work done by the length of the tear gives the average tearing force. The length of the tear is the same in all cases, so that the machine can be calibrated to read the average tearing force.

Triumphant Furnishings.

There has already appeared in the market Victory wallpaper, but it was reserved for Bridgworth in Shropshire, England, to create a Victory carpet. This is now displayed in a window in London. The need for a plethora of symbolism would have destroyed (one would have thought) any chance of achieving artistic success. But this has not proved to be the case. The carpet in question although a mass of doves and olive branches, stars and flags, roses, thistles and shamrocks, is really beautiful in color and design, and a not too observant person could walk across it without so much as being reminded of the war.—San Francisco Argument.

See You Soon.

The other night a girl was asked to have a dance floor because she was unapproached and under eighteen years old says the Indianapolis News. "She was seventeen years and still wasn't old to be asked," says the news agent of the floor.

The girl felt good certainly. "But I'm back in 'em now," she cried as she took the elevator to the street.

SPLIT JUDICIARY COMMITTEE NOW

At Least One of Assemblymen Trying Socialists Are Rebellious at Automatic Rulings of Chairman Martin—His Session Probably Tuesday When Trial Resumes.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Albany, N. Y., Jan. 23.—The intense bitterness of the fight in the New York state assembly to remove from its midst five socialist members has now extended into the membership of the judiciary committee itself, which is hearing evidence against the socialists.

Five or more of the thirteen members have expressed themselves in secret sessions of the judiciary committee as being against the decision which has been made by chairman Martin against the various motions of Morris Hilgert, attorney for the socialists, and when adjournment was taken Thursday evening several of the rebellious members of the committee were preparing to make themselves heard when the hearing began next Tuesday.

William Evans, Democrat, from New York city, Maurice Bloch, Democrat and William Pellet, Republican, all have been decidedly rebellious in the committee's secret conferences and it is ground them that the growing opposition to the action of the assembly has center.

Mr. Evans, in an interview shortly before he took a train for New York last evening, spoke with energy of the situation.

"It is perfectly safe to say that a fight is likely to be made against what has been done in this socialist affair in Albany.

"This thing is too strong. We're not going to let it go. The right way, if we must try these men we must do it at least try them fairly, though I think that we have a right to try them or to remove them."

"There's a lot of feeling inside the judiciary committee about what's been done. We've heard some of our members talk from some of our members here. But you see it's a very foolish situation. Any man who gets up and raises his voice against the thing is likely to be charged with standing for socialism. I'm not a socialist, nor anybody else."

Neither are any other members of the judiciary committee, but it would be so dangerous to have the socialist charge grow up against a man that some of us are going pretty slowly to open opposition to the assembly.

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS NOTES

Decided Regrets—Girls Play Warden Tonight—Varsity Team Wins Central Hudson Valley Basketball League.

Today concluded the regatta examinations of the high school and the new team will begin on Monday. Tonight the Girls' Varsity will play the Girls' Varsity from the Warden High School. Warden has a fine aggregation of basketball players and always put up a good, fast, clean game. Kingston has a newly organized team this year, but that does not detract from the fact that the girls will fight just as hard as the boys for victory.

This is the first home game and the girls need some support other than that of the student body.

Following the game which will begin at eight o'clock there will be dancing, with music by Rott's orchestra, or better known as the "A. R. C." jazz orchestra. Alumni are urged to turn out.

The Varsity basketball team of the school has joined a league of high school teams, which play in this section. The league, which is known as the Central Hudson Valley Basketball League, is made up of the teams of the following schools: Poughkeepsie, Newburgh, Hudson and Kingston.

The standing in the league as it now is:

PORT EWN.

Port Ewn, Jan. 21.—Mrs. B. W. Brainard of Railroad avenue, breeder and exhibitor of high class Golden Campines, has just returned home from the poultry show at Madison Square Garden, New York City, where she exhibited two pullets and two cockerels, receiving first and second prize on cockerels and third and fourth on pullets. Mrs. Brainard has a nice lot of capons and she understands her business as shown by the record at the last poultry show. She exhibited four and received four prizes. It does seem so good to report so well of what woman can do and does and this sure is a boom to our community to have a woman so thorough in this business as to make a showing worth while. We are proud of Mrs. Brainard and wish for her more success in the poultry business and also pleased to note she knows the winners and wins every time.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Dorr and daughter, Lillian, of Stout avenue, spent Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. Kelsch on Hunter street, Kingston.

Mrs. Ralph Atkins and daughters, Helen and Dorothy, of Broadway, spent Thursday with Mrs. Atkins' parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Schoonmaker, in Kingston.

Fred Boice has received his honorable discharge from the army and returned to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Boice, on Bowen street.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Oiddings of Bayard street are guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Honk in Brooklyn.

Mrs. Frederick Cormack and son, Robert D., of Brooklyn, are guests at the Cormack homestead on Broadway.

The miscellaneous social held by Division No. 2 of the Ladies' Aid Society in the Methodist Chapel Tuesday evening, was a success both socially and financially despite the inclement weather.

Hope Lodge, No. 65, Knights of Pythias, will meet this evening at 7:30 o'clock in their castle hall on Broadway.

On Friday evening, January 30, the Union Center Ladies' Aid Society will give an entertainment in the chapel of the M. E. Church. This entertainment is given under the auspices of Division No. 1 of the Ladies' Aid Society of the M. E. Church.
